HAUTLENCE HLRQ 01

The latest addition to the Hautlence avant-garde watch family is sleeker and more powerful than the last.

The new HLRQ 01 was recently announced at SIAR (Salón Internacional de Alta Relojería) in Mexico this October.

An ultra-contemporary aesthetic is created by including features such as the circular satin-brushed black DLC-finish grade 2 titanium 44mm case band and the sapphire dial that opens up an internal view of the manual-winding mechanism. The now-famous Hautlence connecting rod system lets features like the jumping hours and retrograde minutes stand out.

The luxury look of the watch is constructed using 18k pink gold horns, bezel, crown, and push button, while maintaining a brand-wide level of excellence that has been previously established in the finely executed Côtes de Genève and hand-bevelled finishes. An alligator strap with titanium pin buckle or folding clasp completes the aesthetic.

Luxury retail

With headquarters in Switzerland and available in boutiques across the globe, including Al Majed Jewellery in Qatar, Hautlence has recently launched in two more high-end boutiques. The family-run Kirchhofer in Interlaken has been an essential destination for fashion-conscious visitors to Switzerland and now stocks Hautlence among its range. Kronometry 1999 is the second to join the select group of retail partners, and now stocks Hautlence watches in its boutiques in Paris, Cannes, Monaco, and London.

Hautlence HLRQ range

At the GTE (Geneva Time Exhibition) in January 2013, Hautlence premiered the first two models of its exceptional new round-faced line. The HLRQ 02 and HLRQ 03 were highly coveted designs from the outset, and the commercial launch was announced at SIAR in October 2013. The design features and sporty, designed-for-lifestyle ethos have made these international favourites. ✖
